

Whole-family opacity follows from step-response range

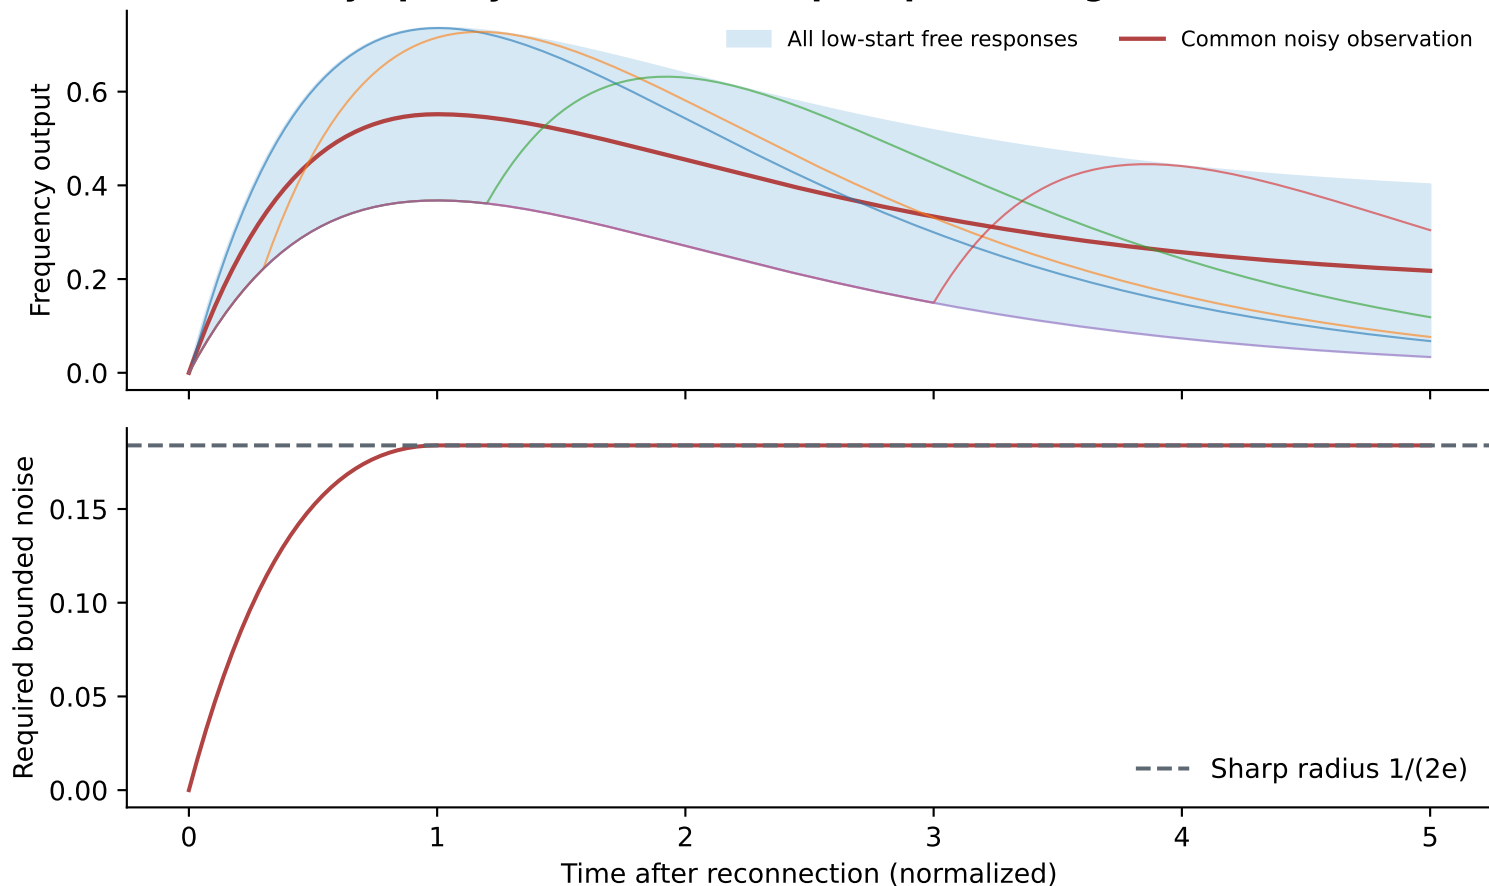

Illustration uses $u=0$. With arbitrary common control, subtract its common response from every curve. This large-error threshold hides the full phase family; it is not the optimal storage threshold.